ARSON SUSPECTED IN $125,000 BANK OF AMERICA FIRE

Arson investigators probe the gutted interior of a two-story Bank of America branch across from the campus of the University of California at Irvine which burned down early today. Officials said the fire was "highly suspicious" and that they suspect "revolutionary radical" arsonists set the blaze. An anonymous midnight alarm was turned in by an "excited male voice" and firefighters who got to the blaze within three minutes found the building engulfed by flames. A radical slogan, "Power to the People," was scrawled on the front of the bank building (right). No explosion was reported in the fire which took 45 minutes to bring under control. Damage was estimated at $125,000. A week ago a bomb blast demolished a nearby greenhouse at the Stanford Research Institute. (UPI Telephoto)

Leary Turns Up In Beirut Hotel

BEIRUT (UPI) — Fugitive American LSD champion Timothy Leary plans to travel to Syria and Jordan after his stay in Lebanon, sources close to the former Harvard lecturer said today.

Cleaver said dispatch of the Leary delegation "indicates very clearly our anti-imperialist position in support of all peoples who are struggling against Fascism, imperialism, colonialism, neocolonialism and all these forms of oppression. Of course, the struggle of the Palestinian people fits into that standard."

"We are concerned about the situation in Palestine, simply because this is a manifestation of the naked, aggressive policies of U.S. imperialism which is using the lackey state of Israel as a tool."

Leary escaped from the Chino, Calif., prison Sept. 13.

Leary and his wife, Rosemary, turned up in Algiers last week. They had been scheduled to give a news conference with Cleaver, but Algerian authorities canceled it.

Cleaver, speaking at his Black Panther hilltop headquarters in the residential Al Bar district, declined to reveal how Leary reached Algiers.

American authorities formally notified the Lebanese police today of Leary's presence in Beirut, a U.S. Embassy official said.

There was no comment from police sources, but the embassy said Lebanese officials were investigating Leary's arrival.

The officials pointed out that there was no extradition treaty between the United States and Lebanon, and therefore Leary's arrest by Lebanese police would not be of any use to the United States.

One clue to Leary's activities came in a statement Sunday by Black Panther Eldridge B. Cleaver who told UPI in Algiers

Planners Hit More Filling For Marina

Sven B. Berg, who wants to build a marina on Tomales Bay just south of Marshall Hotel, should not be allowed to add any more fill, the Marin County planning commissioners decided today by 5 to 2 vote.

Whether Berg should be required to remove an 80-foot, illegally installed concrete wall will be deferred for one year to see if the wall can be incorporated into a specific plan by Berg.

FILL REJECTION

The rejection of fill, and a one-year deferral on abatement of the wall came on a motion by John F. West and a second by Jack G. Nixon. Voting with them were Walter F. Freitas, Edward Hageman, and Eugene R. Trombley.

Margaret B. Azevedo and Hugh Dougherty dissented. Mrs. Azevedo agreed with Harold E. Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, that structures illegally built should be removed.

"Any intrusion into the bay should be by pilings only," said Mrs. Azevedo.

Bryan R. McCarthy, attorney for Berg, argued that the concrete wall extends no farther than other buildings along the bay and would harm no one.

80 FEET LONG

The concrete wall, about 80 feet long, is located about 60 feet off Shoreline Highway.

Walter Weyman, president of the Tomales Bay Association, said the wall should be removed because it was built without a permit. He said if a marina and a launching ramp were built there, cars and trailers would back onto the highway.

Berg's request was the first of several applications for filling and diking in Tomales Bay that were scheduled to come before the county planning commission today.

U.N. MIDEAST DEBATE

U.S. Aid To Israel 'Threatens Peace'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad accused the United States today of threatening world peace by increasing military aid to Israel despite Israel's withdrawal from U.N. peace negotiations.

Riad opened Middle East debate in the General Assembly — the first time the 127-nation body has taken up the issue. Previous discussions were in the Security Council, but Egypt got approval of the Assembly debate over U.S. objections it would torpedo the peace talks.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban has said in advance Israel would not take a "defensive" role in the debate.

This became clear today in Tel Aviv when the Israeli army intelligence chief said Egypt and Russia had used the cease-fire to build one of the world's most advanced anti-aircraft systems on the west bank of the Suez Canal.

In New York, Prime Minister Golda Meir said Sunday night four Soviet planes piloted by Russians were shot down by the Israeli air force before the Suez Canal cease-fire went into effect Aug. 7.

Mrs. Meir also told some 300

students at the Waldorf-Astoria that "200 Russians are coming in" with each SAM3 missile battery moved into Egypt's 31-mile-wide cease-fire zone.

She said 200 Soviet personnel are needed to operate each SAM3

site.

"How do I know there are Russian pilots in Egypt?" she told the students. "Very simply because we had shot down four Soviet planes that were flown by Soviet pilots."

She did not say when the planes were downed or identify the type of planes.

Mrs. Meir said Israel did not publicize the incidents before "because we are not interested in showing that we are heroes and are not prepared to fight the Russians."

Riad, in accusing the United States of obstructing Middle East peace through its aid to Israel, said, "The rule of the charter makes it incumbent upon the United States to stand by the countries that are victims of aggression and not to support Israel, the aggressor."

"By taking this hostile position towards the Arab peoples and by supporting Israel, the aggressor, the United States obstructs the realization of peace in the Middle East, endangers world peace and encourages the use of force in international relations," Riad said.

The official protest delivered to Boris H. Klosson, chargé d'affaires of the U.S. Embassy, said the United States had violated Russian air space more than 10 times in the past three years and blamed this on "the general military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union."

"It has become imperative that the United Nations keep the situation in the Middle East under its active attention, that it follow up constantly the efforts for peace and make use of its powers under the charter, until peace is finally secured by the withdrawal of Israel's aggressive forces from all the occupied Arab territories," Riad said.

Meanwhile, hopes for extending the Middle East cease-fire beyond its Nov. 5 deadline brightened today. The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Egypt has no objection to extending the truce 60 days.

Al Ahram, in an article Sunday, mentioned the 60-day period for the first time.

Arab guerrillas Sunday fired on an Israeli border patrol, an Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said. He said five policemen were wounded in the incident, which took place near Sheetula along the Lebanese border.

The protest said there had been a "considerable increase" recently in the activity of the U.S. Air Force and Navy "in the area directly adjoining the southern border" of Russia — a reference to the U.S. 6th Fleet.

The strongly worded government statement followed President Nixon's appeal to Russia in the United Nations General Assembly last Friday for better relations.

It was pointed out that high-powered automobiles used by the government such as Nixon's own limousines would still require use of higher octane gasolines which contain a higher lead content than the low lead products currently being marketed.

The government currently

Kremlin Threatens 'Dangerous Events'

Claims U.S. Threatens Her Borders

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today accused the United States of repeated violations of Russian air space and said Washington "should clearly realize that such actions can only increase the possibility of very dangerous events fraught with most serious aftermaths."

The official protest delivered to Boris H. Klosson, chargé d'affaires of the U.S. Embassy, said the United States had violated Russian air space more than 10 times in the past three years and blamed this on "the general military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union."

GOVERNMENT CARS

Nixon Orders Use Of Low-Lead Gas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today ordered the use of low lead or unleaded gasoline in all government cars which can use it and urged all governors to take similar steps to cut down on air pollution.

Nixon's order, effective today, applies to more than half of the 600,000 government-owned cars in the United States including military vehicles.

Nixon said in a statement the purposes of the order are "to reduce air pollution and to increase the market for low lead and unleaded gasoline, in order to make such fuels more generally available."

The President also sent a letter to each of the 50 governors urging them to undertake similar programs as "a major contribution to the cleaning up of the air."

Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council of Environmental Quality, said the new federal regulation will affect about 54 per cent of all government vehicles.

It was pointed out that high-powered automobiles used by the government such as Nixon's own limousines would still require use of higher octane gasolines which contain a higher lead content than the low lead products currently being marketed.

The government currently uses about 500 million gallons of gasoline a year inside the United States. Train estimated that the order will require the purchase of 270 million gallons of unleaded or low-leaded gasolines now made by about 14 companies.

Since the cost of lower leaded fuel is about 2 cents a gallon higher than the price of regular gasoline, officials estimated that the regulation will cost the government about $5.4 million more a year.

A spokesman said the government now spends about $37 million a year buying gasoline at retail prices. The government also buys gasoline at wholesale prices.

Despite the heavy use of gasoline for government purposes officials said that of the total consumption in the United States federal use is only about one half of one per cent.

The General Services Administration said that the government also plans to buy cars in the future that can use the low lead fuel.

MAN KILLED BY RUNAWAY TRUCK

Denvil Garmen, 51, of Auburn, was killed and 20 other persons injured Sunday when a runaway truck smashed into 14 vehicles on Interstate 80 near Emigrant Gap. A stretch of the Sierra

Nevada freeway was backed up half a mile by a previous accident when the runaway, horn honking as it rounded a curve, smashed into a California Highway Patrol car and careened into the line of vehicles before it went over a bank, pushing three other cars ahead of it. The driver of the truck fled on foot and has not been found.

Wichita Crash Inquiry Points To Pilot Error

An expert testifying at the final session of a federal investigating board's hearing said the plane was doomed once it flew into Clear Creek Valley, Colo.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Reagan Warning On Youth Power

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Sunday again registered his opposition to lowering the voting age, suggested college tuition should be tax deductible, and renewed his attack on social welfare workers.

The chief executive, speaking on a television panel show, said he opposed the 18-year-old vote because of the political repercussions it entailed.

"This would make every campus a solid voting block," he said. "Once a campus becomes a voting block there is no party or candidate who cannot afford to organize that campus."

The governor said he will continue to push for tuition at the 19 state colleges, but noted that only the legislature at this time can impose it.

He said that tuition charged students should be subtracted from their own or their parents' federal income taxes as a credit.

Reagan received his running battle with welfare administrators, whom he again charged with "sabotaging" his welfare reform proposals.

"Their philosophy is to enlarge it (welfare) and make it bigger," he said. "We ran up against outright sabotage."

But the Governor said he now has task forces at work to devise ways of "going around" the social workers. He declined to say what the recommendations would be.

TUNNEY DENIAL

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Statewide newspaper advertisements attacking Rep. John V. Tunney's opposition to a congressional anti-crime bill are "gutter politics" and grossly deceptive and misleading, the Riverside Democrat said today.

"I am very much for—not against, as the ad headlines say—outlawing the Molotov cocktail, establishing penalties for the manufacture of bombs, providing five-year mandatory sentences for repeat offenders for upgrading qualifications for judges," he said in a statement.

The senatorial candidate said the ad intentionally omitted two controversial provisions of the District of Columbia Reform and Criminal Procedures Act of 1970 which he felt objectionable and untrue.

"One subjects policemen to possible assassination because of unnecessary risks, and the other violates our constitutional presumption of innocence until proven guilty," he said.

"Actually, the ad is as slippery and misleading as Murphy's evasive answers about his involvement with Technicolor," said Tunney, who is running against Sen. George Murphy.

"I think this issue coupled with the disclosures about the governor's Malibu Ranch deal—

Man Under Treatment In Overdose In Holding Cell

Charles F. Singleton, 31, of Corte Madera, was reported under treatment today at Marin General Hospital for an overdose of pills taken Friday while in a holding cell.

Singleton was found unconscious at about 11:30 a.m. in a holding cell adjacent to the courtroom of Judge Alvin H. Goldstein in the Hall of Justice. He had apparently taken an overdose of pills before being ordered into custody by the judge during a municipal court probation hearing.

On probation for a 1969 drunk driving conviction, Singleton

Detroit Held Lucky In Shootout

DETROIT (UPI) — Two Detroit policemen noticed a disturbance Saturday night at Myrtle and 14 streets, where Black Panthers were selling literature. They moved in to break it up and night long violence erupted.

Eight hours later, one policeman lay shot to death, another was wounded, four police cars had burned and 15 young persons were in custody after keeping police from barricaded Panther headquarters for eight hours.

'CITY LUCKY'

Acting Mayor Mel Ravitz said the city had been lucky. It could have been "the showdown—a holocaust," but for police restraint and the efforts of community leaders, he said.

Sunday, the seven men and eight women, all between the ages of 17 and 21, were arraigned on charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

They stood silent and pleas of innocent were entered for them. A hearing was set for Friday.

The first two policemen said a scuffle developed when they tried to disperse a crowd around Black Panthers selling their literature. They called for help.

About 100 policemen poured into the area, inhabited by low-income whites, blacks and Puerto Ricans. One of them, patrolman Marshall Emerson, was shot in the hand and another patrolman Glenn E. Smith, 26, fell with a fatal gunshot wound in the head.

Police surrounded the building from which the gunfire apparently came and blocked off the area. Police commissioner John Nichols established a command post in an armored car stationed nearby.

12 LEAVE

Rather than try to shoot their way into the barricaded building, police enlisted the help of black community leaders and public officials, including State Rep. James Del Rio, to try to talk the inhabitants into surrendering.

Eventually, 12 persons voluntarily left the building with a squad of prominent black persons standing nearby to guarantee their safety.

At that point, Nichols said later, "we had to go in rather than delay or the situation would have worsened."

Nichols ordered tear gas fired into the building and flushed out the remaining three persons.

Oakland Man Leaps To Death

A 26-year-old Oakland man leaped to his death yesterday from the east rail of the Golden Gate Bridge after parking his car in a traffic lane, the California Highway Patrol has reported.

The body of James Leet was recovered in minutes after the jump by a fisherman who witnessed it. Other witnesses said they saw Leet walk to the rail, climb over and jump, officers said.

No note was found, the highway patrol said.

The hospital would not report Singleton's condition.

Cost Of Rioting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Riots in the Mexican-American community of East Los Angeles Aug. 29 and Sept. 16 cost the county $1,644,870, L. S. Hollinger, chief administrative officer, said Sunday.

Student Flyer Asks Racially Mixed School

A proposal to bus large numbers of students from San Rafael High School to a racially mixed school in some other district, with the same numbers of minority race students being bussed to San Rafael, is being pushed by a group called Students for Social Change.

No member of Students for Social Change is named in a mimeographed flyer promoting the idea which has been passed out to students and placed in teachers' boxes. Faculty leader reportedly is Richard H. Delgado, mathematics teacher prominent in the Student-Faculty Coalition.

The flyer was placed in teacher's boxes last Friday by Delgado, according to school administrators. It declares that de facto segregation exists at San Rafael High School, with the result that students "are being culturally deprived."

It charges that San Rafael

Students at San Rafael High School demand that the school district finance a large-scale student exchange program with a racially mixed school outside the district. This might begin with a single busload of 50 to 60 white students being bussed out every day, and the same number of Oriental, Black and Chicano students coming to school here. Our program would be on a voluntary basis, with students signing up for a minimum of one semester."

The flyer concludes: "All men are brothers! We shall overcome! Viceremos!"

Young Airman Is Due 'General' Discharge

A young Hamilton Air Force base serviceman will accept a "general" discharge tomorrow, instead of the "undesirable" discharge the Air Force earlier sought to give him.

Airman John Elvin King, 22, will not press for a military hearing to obtain an "honorable" discharge, according to one of his attorneys, Capt. Frederick T. Graham of the base legal office.

Principal difference between an honorable and a general discharge, Graham explained, is in the ornate printing of the honor-

Plan Peace Vigil At Redwood High

A children's fair and a peace vigil to benefit Measure A, the peace referendum on the Nov. 3 ballot, will be held Sunday.

The fair, a project of students at Redwood High School, will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school basketball courts.

Games, prizes, puppets, mimes, clowns and marionettes will revolve around the theme, "Our Children Deserve A World Without War."

At 7 p.m. a group of 25 Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen will sponsor a Vigil for Peace at the Old San Rafael Courthouse. Holding lighted candles, they will pray for peace and the passage of Measure A.

Eventually, 12 persons voluntarily left the building with a squad of prominent black persons standing nearby to guarantee their safety.

At that point, Nichols said later, "we had to go in rather than delay or the situation would have worsened."

Nichols ordered tear gas fired into the building and flushed out the remaining three persons.

Ballot Issues To Get Council Airing

The San Anselmo city council will be asked at its meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday to take positions on five Nov. 3 ballot issues.

Representatives of the Marin Committee for Peace Referendum will seek the council's support for Marin County Measure A; Marin College Board of Trustees for measures B and C; Marin Municipal Water District for Measure H, and Citizens for Yes on Proposition 20 for proposition 20.

The council Monday will also consider amending city codes to regulate living in trailers and camp cars.

The three were among 30 projects, assisted by HUD in planning and construction, to be cited.

Alquist Says Reagan Campaign Deceptive

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist of San Jose, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, today branded Gov. Ronald Reagan's campaign as "a deliberate attempt to deceive the voters."

The state senator said that the governor's philosophy of government was "to find out where the people want to go so he can lead them, and find out what they

Inaccurate Statement On Peevey

Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, Democratic nominee for state Senate, today demanded — and got — a retraction from his Republican opponent, Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, "for lying about my military record."

Behr, in a campaign mailer, described Peevey as having had no military service.

Peevey, however, said he had served two years on active duty and four years of reserve service in the Marine Corps Reserve. He charged Behr with "a deliberate lie and shoddy campaign smears."

Behr promptly issued a statement saying the statement about Peevey's military service was "inaccurate," but that he had learned that it was incorrect only after the mailing was made. "This error was made neither carelessly nor deliberately. No mention of such military service is made in my opponent's official biography."

Peevey charged that Behr's "ability to lie about my military record casts serious doubts about his own capabilities as a public servant. A man who would stoop to lies of such nature is not the kind of man who should represent the people of this district in Sacramento," Peevey said.

relations between the two countries. It said the dangerous U.S. air activities are not in accord with the statements of U.S. leaders.

The note specifically protested the violation of the Russian border last week by the U.S. Army plane. It also brought up the U2 incident and sternly reminded Turkey that after the U2 incident Turkey had promised not to let Allied planes use its bases.

In emphasizing the solemnity of its warning the protest said the Soviet government "expects that the United States government will display a most serious approach to the position outlined in this statement and draw appropriate conclusions."

The American military plane with two Army generals, an Army major pilot and a Turkish colonel have been held in Yerevan, near the Turkish frontier, since the landing.

The protest, the Tass news agency said, reminded the Nixon administration that "in the past three years alone there were more than 10 unlawful violations of the USSR air space."

"Violations of the USSR's air space by American planes happen by no means because of some chance, concurrence of circumstance, but are a result of the general military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union," it said.

The Soviet government has repeatedly drawn the attention of the United States government to this activity that is openly hostile to Russia. The preservation of American military bases around the Soviet Union is a most serious source of danger and does not accord in any way with the statements in favor of an improvement of Soviet-American relations that were repeatedly made by U.S. leaders."

The protest said the Soviet government "expects that the United States government will display a most serious approach to the position outlined in this statement and draw appropriate conclusions."

The Soviets also protested to the Turkish government, drawing its attention to the violation by an American plane.

"In this connection surprise alone can be caused by remarks made by certain quarters in Turkey that Turkish authorities are not answerable for the actions of the violating plane since it belongs to the American Air Force," Russia said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Measure H Deserves Passage, Not Enthusiasm

Marin Municipal Water District is asking voter approval Nov. 3 of an $11,500,000 bond issue. This appears as Measure H in ballot books within the district.

Some $4 million of this money would be used to run a large water line from Novato south past Hamilton Air Force Base, to carry water which the district eventually will draw as its share of Russian River flow. A 12-inch line which hooks into the North Marin Water District line in Novato is insufficient to handle the volume that will be drawn. MMWD plans to lay the new, larger line beside the existing 12-inch one.

The rest of the $11,500,000 issue would go to finance improvements in the district's distribution system, including pumping plants, a reservoir in the Corte Madera area, some new lines, and replacement of many old lines that are small, corroded or otherwise inadequate.

IT SEEMS a rather sad commentary on the operations of Marin Municipal Water District that it has allowed its distribution system to deteriorate to such an extent that an outlay of some $7.5 million is necessary to put it in proper shape. A few years ago the district found more than $800,000 for a rather plush headquarters building in Corte Madera, and another $400,000 for its corporation yard there. It would appear in retrospect that this money might have been put to better use to keep the lines in condition to deliver water — the purpose for which the district was organized.

However, that is merely "crying over spilt milk." The fact remains that MMWD did not spend the money to improve the service facilities, and they now are in great need of upgrading.

The line from Novato was talked about by water district officials last year as the first unit in what may become a $60 million project to bring future water supplies from a reservoir to be created by a dam proposed above Healdsburg.

If we thought this $4 million portion of the bond issue represented merely a down payment on eventual outlay of $60 million or more, we should be very reticent to endorse it. However, it is not. It would provide a line to carry Russian River water that already may be delivered via the Sonoma-North Marin Aqueduct and the North Marin County Water District's lines as far as Novato. It would be foolish not to provide this link.

MEASURE H thus appears to boil down to these considerations:

1. Of its total, $7.5 million would go for improvements within the district that definitely are needed and should not be longer delayed.

2. The $4 million line from Novato is needed to enable MMWD to draw its present share of Russian River water.

The district last month raised its water rates 25 per cent. They are now just about that much higher than North Marin County Water District rates. The increase, according to Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger, will be enough to retire the bond issue.

THIS BEING the case, we recommend approval of Measure H. But we accompany this recommendation with a warning to the water district that hereafter it needs to do a whole lot better job of husbanding its resources and delivering potable water when and where it is needed. And it needs to be a whole lot more frank and open with the public about what it is doing.

If it fails to make these reforms, Marin Municipal Water District can scarcely expect to get public support for any further spending programs.

Holes May Improve Swiss Cheese —But Not Political Spending Law

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

We've always heard that Swiss cheese is supposed to be better if it has lots of holes in it.

The same cannot be said for California's law on reporting political contributions. Even an honest mouse could get dizzy wandering in the labyrinth of holes in this cheesy law.

Our inspiration for these observations was the remark last week by the finance chairman of a candidate for state office: "I have a campaign to finance, and I don't care where the money comes from."

THE PUBLIC INTEREST, however, requires that voters have some assurance that candidates for public office deserve the public's confidence. The high cost of campaigning has increased the chance that candidates may arrive in office already hopelessly in hock to special interests.

A key provision of the law on reporting political contributions requires candidates to file statements listing all contributions over $500, detailing individual contributors and the amount each gave. That sounds great on paper, but is virtually worthless in practice.

The law still allows this kind of statement to be filed: loan to campaign committee, $15,000; Blue Sky Committee, $1,000; anonymous, $1,000; Hiram Smith, $1,000; anonymous, $2,000; Ace Drafting Corp., $1,000, and A.B. Cee Sr., $5,000.

"That's just the way the check read," we were told by the finance chairman when we pressed him for elaboration on the identity of these vague sources of contributions. "Frankly, I don't want to know who is behind each check," he added.

His claimed ignorance of "who is behind each check" apparently was designed to show that his candidate thus could not possibly be indebted to the contributors. We were not convinced.

THE LAW ALSO allows candidates to solicit, without limit, contributions up to and including $500 without having to identify individual donors. The candidates only have to identify their friends when the amount is over $500.

The law also allows a candidate to report a contribution, say of $10,000, from a committee that held a dinner for him. Half of the tickets may have been bought by one special interest, but the public never would know. Then there are auctions of contributed goods, again possible device to mask contributors.

The possibilities to evade the spirit of the law are limitless, and no doubt all are being exercised again this election year. The arrangement, of course, is comfortable to both candidates and contributors. The fact is that many big contributors figure they are buying something for their money. As such, they are consumers of the public interest.

All in all, the law reminds us of some Liederkrantz left to rot under a hot sun.

Resolves To Curb Spending By Vote

Having just received and analyzed the 1970-71 tax statement on my home in Novato, I am appalled at what we, the taxpayers, have permitted to occur.

The taxable assessed value has been increased by 15 per cent. The total tax, however, has gone up by 26.4 per cent! In one year!

Broken down among the various taxing units the percentages are most interesting:

County bill up 24.2%
City bill-Novato up 59.0%
School bill up 17.6%
Special districts up 56.0%
Water district down 8.0%
Since the various elected and appointed officials have not yet received the message taxes are too high, I am making a New Year's resolution several months in advance.

From now on I do not intend to cast my ballot for any candidate who has in the past or advocates for the future any increase in expenditures! To get my vote a candidate must have done or propose to do something to decrease the cost of government! And there are plenty of areas where this can be done!

I'll make one exception. I am willing to spend more for law enforcement and for the prosecution of law violators.

Courts, NLRB Seeking Way Through Picket Thicket

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Before the Norris-LaGuardia Act was passed in 1932, courts had often held that any picketing at all was illegal. Since then the unions' "right" to picket has been enormously expanded, but there has been vast confusion over what limits, if any, should be placed on this right.

Fortunately, both the National Labor Relations Board and the courts appear to be moving toward greater clarity. In a couple of recent cases, the NLRB appears to stress a reasonable rule.

ONE CASE involved eight unions representing striking employees of Hearst's Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. On the theory that Hearst is Hearst, wherever it operates, the unions not only picketed in Los Angeles but Hearst's San Francisco Examiner.

When the San Francisco paper protested, it found that an NLRB trial examiner largely agreed with the unions.

In considering the case, however, the full NLRB decided to look deeper. It found, by a three-to-one majority, that the San Francisco and Los Angeles papers were largely autonomous enterprises, and that the corporation "does not exercise actual, or active, control." The board might have added that, at the time at least, the employees of the San Francisco paper had no quarrel with their employer.

Another case concerned two Hearst enterprises in Baltimore, a newspaper and a radio-TV operation. Picketing one when the quarrel was with the other, the board held, was an illegal secondary boycott.

THE PRINCIPLE involved is simply that labor unions should not be permitted to expand labor disputes, through picketing, merely to suit their own convenience. Labor unions have rights, but so do other segments of society.

For a number of years after 1932, the courts tended to confuse the right to picket with the constitutionally protected right of free speech. This concept was aided considerably when, in one case, Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis remarked.

"Members of a union might without special statutory authorization by a state make known the facts of a labor dispute, for freedom of speech is guaranteed by the federal Constitution."

What some judges and lawyers overlooked was that Justice Brandeis did not say that unions always had the right to picket to "make known the facts." The idea that picketing and free speech were one and the same became so firmly imbedded in decisions that state courts were left little power to control picketing.

Since Norris-LaGuardia had deprived lower Federal courts of jurisdiction in most cases involving labor disputes, and since the NLRB was friendly toward most forms of picketing, the employers were largely stuck with it. That was true even though almost anyone could see that picketing usually involves at least some coercive elements.

CHIEF JUSTICE Warren E. Burger has suggested that one way to ease the situation is to permit state courts to reenter the field. "The protection of private property," he said in a case earlier this year, "through trespass laws is historically a concern of state law. Congress has never undertaken to alter this allocation of power and has provided no remedy to an employer within the National Labor Relations Act to prevent an illegal trespass on his premises."

The government's new credit tightening regulations severely reduced retail sales around the nation, an Associated Press survey showed.

I was very interested in the letter by Kenneth Christ in tonight's (Oct. 20) I-J. Although he rides a motorcycle, I drive a car, I felt by reading his letter that he and I were suffering from the same problem.

I have arrived at my destination badly shaken and with very little faith in mankind left, on more occasions than I can count. Yesterday, a man driving a red Jaguar nearly ran me off the road by trying to pass me on the Mill Valley off-ramp from the freeway. This has got to be the height of absurdity as far as being in such a big hurry as to only threaten other lives, but damn near succeed in snuffing them out.

Have you pulled up to a four-way stop intersection lately, such as exists on East Blithedale in Mill Valley at Lomita and Camino Alto? If you care to risk your life and wish to observe vicious people "doing their thing," that's the place to be, especially during commute hours. I always thought the law stated that you must come to a full stop at a stop sign — that means every car, not just the first one in line.

Won't everyone please slow down, practice driving more safely? There is nothing that could possibly be important enough to warrant risking lives and that is exactly what's happening. Everyone is driving like they have lost their minds!

Agnew Handicaps Nixon Leadership; Can He Be Running For President?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Vice President Agnew rushed out in front of the President to attack the Scranton Commission report because he found it a political temptation he couldn't resist.

That's the most plausible explanation.

Agnew knew he had to act promptly or throw away an opportunity to exploit the campus issue to benefit the Republican cause.

He chose to exploit rather than to wait for the President to decide what line the administration would take on the Scranton Commission report on campus unrest.

The vice president must have calculated that while Mr. Nixon might not go along with the sharp, hostile criticisms of the report, he would approve Agnew's initiative to use it as a campaign issue.

It now appears that Agnew was right on both points.

THE EVIDENCE is that the President will not follow the anti-report line laid down by the vice president. But it also appears that Mr. Nixon will delay acting on the report until after the congressional elections. This will give further time for the Republicans to get any partisan value they can from Agnew-type use of it.

Agnew can argue, if he wishes, that his running against the Scranton Commission report as a device to blame the opposition for crime and violence is little different from the Democrats running against Herbert Hoover for years after he was out of office as a device to blame the Republicans for the depression.

But Agnew isn't running against what the Scranton Commission says. He's running against what he says it says — but doesn't say.

THIS IS JUST one of several ways Agnew has made things difficult for the President in this matter.

His assertions that the commission said one thing when actually it said quite the opposite have spread such a false image of the report that when President Nixon comes to speak out, he will first have to correct that false image.

Italian TV Solves Problems Of Allotting Political Time

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

ROME — While American politicians are trying to cope with the high cost of television in an election year, their counterparts here in Italy are getting more and more TV exposure, provided at government expense.

Tribuna Tribuna Popolare — Popular Tribune — is the most recent addition to a list of free political broadcasts aired by the national television network. Popular Tribune is a series of six weekly telecasts which features two political spokesmen — one from the government majority and one from the opposition — answering questions from the Italian grass-roots.

THE FIRST hour-long program in the new series got a good press earlier this month. Italian radio-TV pundits praised the efforts of the citizens-questioners, who were a Bariette housewife, a pediatrician from Naples, and a young university professor from Florence. They were, according to published accounts, well informed and probing with their questions.

Hundreds of television viewers were screened as questioners by network interviewers. Final selection of the rank and file questioners was made by Parliament's Television and Radio Vigilance Committee, which rides herd over the networks here.

Political parties select their own spokesmen for Popular Tribune appearances. Before the series is concluded all nine Italian parties will have been represented at one time or another.

NOW TEN YEARS old, Popular Tribune also provides free TV time for Italian politicians. It is an every — Thursday feature, in prime viewing hours, except in the summer.

Audiences numbering up to nine million people have watched Popular Tribune. Time is apportioned by the vigilance committee to the various political parties on the basis of the number of deputies in making the commission report a political issue while Mr. Nixon was abroad, Agnew made it virtually impossible for the President to respond to the report immediately upon his return. Very likely Mr. Nixon does not agree with everything in the report, but for him to appraise the report in the last days before the elections, after the vice president had already injected a distorted version of it into the campaign, could easily make things worse.

Finally, there is uncertainty, at least among some on the White House staff, as to whether Agnew just made a pardonable mistake or whether he deliberately staked out policy for himself on the campus-unrest report knowing that President Nixon had not decided what course the administration should take.

IS SPIRO AGNEW running for President? It would not be surprising if one or two voices on the White House staff might reply — what else?

We don't believe he is, but it shows what tension the vice president has created.

Some suggest that if Richard Nixon tries to promote reconciliation with the nation's students, as the commission urges, this will be rather spineless, showing that he is hesitant to take forthright action.

Just the opposite. It would show courage and forthrightness. It would mean that the President has decided to be the leader, not the captive, of Middle America.

There is no doubt that many in Middle America today tend to be as hostile toward impatient, dissenting students who reject violence as they are toward students who resort to violence. If the President extends the hand of reconciliation to the impatient, nonviolent students, he will be offering many of his natural constituents — in a worthy cause.

"Should a President lead public opinion, or follow it?" Nixon asked himself during the presidential campaign.

His answer was: He should lead.

Now is a crucial opportunity for him to do so.

Search Order Does The Impossible: Cleans Out Women's Purses

Marin County employees are having their pictures taken for identification cards that will allow them to enter the Civic Center and Hall of Justice between 7 and 8 a.m., before the public is allowed inside.

But flashing the ID cards won't guarantee automatic passage. If their coats bulge in the wrong places or they carry big packages, they'll still be subject to search, and that's as it should be.

Why? Because an ID card could be lost and used by someone else, or someone seriously interested in sabotaging the buildings could send in infiltrators.

County employees and the public seem to be accepting the new stop and search system in good spirits, with very few exceptions.

Even visitors from abroad aren't fazed at all when confronted with the body and baggage search. "We're used to it," they explain. "Every time we board a plane, we go through the same thing."

THE BIGGEST change

wrought by the search order is in the contents of women's purses. They've all cleaned out their purses of extraneous matter, partly to help the woman deputy who has to rummage through and partly to save themselves embarrassment.

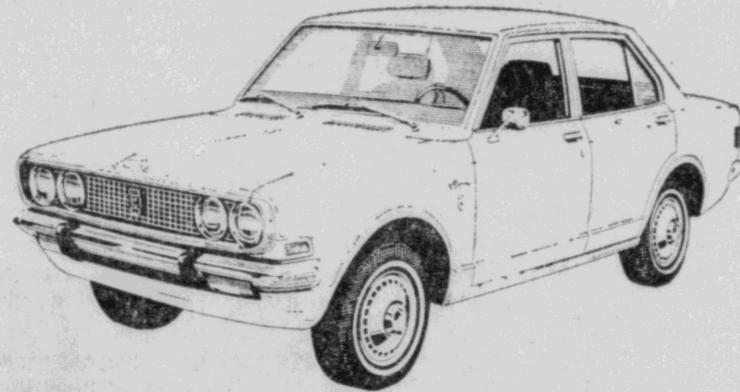

Heretofore, the contents of a woman's purse were guarded more zealously than Fort Knox.

When the search first started two weeks ago, women would march up to the gate and instinctively clutch their purses closer to them as if to say: "You don't dare!" When the woman deputy insisted, they'd cock their heads for a moment's reflection as they pondered the question: "Now, did I have something in my purse that I don't want these characters to see?"

As they submitted to the supreme sacrifice, they would peer inside, along with the woman deputy, not quite sure themselves of what might pop out.

But in the two weeks, the purses have been cleaned out.

Of Course It's All A Big Lie; Nobody Could Be Watching TV

Today I'm going to tell you a secret — a secret that's been under tighter wraps than even the famous Manhattan Project of yesteryear. This undercover affair — called the Madison Project by the few elite on the inside — became known to me quite by accident, and after hours of anguish and soul wrenching I determined the truth should be told.

Nobody watches television.

Now you know. You and I and all the rest of us have been led to believe that there reclines nightly a vast horde of people before their television sets — millions of people before millions of TV sets — watching.

THIS IS a gross lie!

It is an outrageous prevarication perpetrated by a group of frenetic Madison Avenue public relations and advertising types who conceived this precocious brain-child during one of their more productive "think" sessions.

Some quick election predictions:

Ronald Reagan by a big margin over Jesse Unruh, Max Rafferty in a squeaker over Wilson Riles for state school superintendent, Ernest Kettner over William Bennett for the state Board of Equalization, George Murphy over John Tunney for U.S. Senate, Peter Behr in a close one over Mike Peevey for state Senate, Assemblyman Bill Bagley over Joe Forest, and Bob Smallman over Ernest Zunino for municipal court judge.

since there wasn't any way to disprove it — well, there you have it. As easy as that.

It was a magnificent absurdity. Who could honestly believe there were millions of sound, sensible, sober folk transfixed before millions of glowing tubes every night? Only a hopeless cynic would believe that. The very thought of it violates the mind. But the Madison Avenue boys did it, their project succeeded.

THOSE RESPONSIBLE for this hoax will have, now that their secret is out, a whole lot of explaining to do — if they can. It might be interesting to hear them trying to explain away such extravaganzas as the Beverly Hillbillies, Ho-you can see how ludicrous such a notion is. The idiocy that there are millions OUT THERE watching TV every night is an affront to every body's common sense. There simply can't be anyone OUT THERE — there can't be! Can there?

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You'll Find Unlucky Expert In Many Modern Foursomes

Today's hand comes from "Cut for Partners," which the late S. J. Simon wrote some 25 years ago. I'd recommend this little classic to fun-loving bridge players except that it's out of print. (I found it at the Gambler's Book Club in Las Vegas, perhaps the best place in the world to get new and old books on bridge and all sorts of other card games.) You'll find today's hand as fresh and timely as the sun that rose this morning.

ATTEMPTS FINESSE
Now the diamonds were blocked, since South had only the queen left, with no way to get back to dummy. The unlucky expert had to fall back on the club finesse. Down one.

If this happens to you, don't try to explain. Just say that you're an unlucky expert.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

- ♦ A K Q J 10 7 6
- ♥ None
- ♦ K 10
- ♣ K 6 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

The hand has far too much slam potential to justify an opening bid of four spades. You might easily make a slam if partner has the ace of diamonds and the queen of clubs, but you'd never get to slam if you opened with a shutdown bid.

UNLUCKY EXPERT
No sensible bridge player would find it hard to make six hearts redoubled, but South was the unlucky expert, a character you find in many modern foursomes. The unlucky expert, a very impractical fellow, thinks too much for his own good.

South ruffed the opening spade lead in dummy, drew one round of trumps and then led a diamond from dummy. East played low, and the unlucky expert found a tortuous line of reasoning that persuaded him to play the ace of diamonds.

West, who hadn't been paying attention, expected South to try a finesse with the queen of diamonds and played the king before he realized that South had played the ace. Does the scene remind you of your own foursome? (It reminds me of mine!)

SLAM NOW UNBEATABLE
The slam was now unbeatable, of course, if South led the queen of diamonds. Even if it turned out that West's king had been a singleton, South could take the jack of diamonds, ruff a diamond and draw trumps. Then he could discard a loser on dummy's last diamond.

But an unlucky expert doesn't make allowances for accidents. South led a trump to dummy and returned a diamond to try his "proven" finesse with the nine. West won with the ten of diamonds and led another spade, forcing out dummy's last trump.

DOVER, Del. (UPI)—Jacob Zimmerman, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, appeared on the same platform with his two opponents recently, and gave the audience a warning remarkable for its candor.

"Don't believe anything a politician tells you during campaign times," he said.

Donald Hourigan Has Busy Schedule

Scholarship and mathematics go together for Donald T. Hourigan, head mathematics teacher at San Rafael's David S. School.

During school hours, Hourigan leads seventh and eighth graders through the intricacies of the "new math" — made simpler by the use of such devices as mathematical games which help the students see the application of the things they learn.

Classes over, he coaches the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs in the Pop Warner football league, and referees basketball games.

As if that didn't keep him busy enough, Hourigan for four years also headed a Hi-Y group. The members have now gone on to college and the military, "but I see them sometimes," he says.

Back to scholarship: Hourigan is active in the Marin County Math Council, organized by some mathematics teachers in Marin schools two years ago. He is on the council's planning committee and is its secretary. It brings in authorities to address Marin mathematics teachers and give them new ideas to take into the school rooms. Also it sponsors an annual junior high school mathematics conference at which (believe it or not!) seventh and eighth graders pay $1 to attend Saturday mathematics lectures and demonstrations by other seventh and eighth graders.

Hourigan's principal, Hanlon P. Tharp, sums it up this way: "He does a tremendous lot for the children."

Hourigan says he does it all because he likes it — and because "it's for the kids."

Hourigan, who lives on North San Pedro Road near the Marin County Civic Center, is in his ninth year teaching at Davidson. He is unmarried — perhaps having been too busy to acquire a wife and family cares.

No Indian Snub, Premier Declares

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, said her absence from a White House dinner Saturday night was not due to her nation's strong objections to U.S. aid to Pakistan.

Mrs. Gandhi said Sunday "the people of India feel very strongly" about the resumption of aid to Pakistan because the war materials can be used only against India; but she said her absence from President Nixon's dinner "didn't have anything to do" with the renewed aid.

The dinner was held for 31 chiefs of state who came to the United States for the 25th anniversary of the birth of the United Nations.

Commission Due Ferry Terminal Plan

The Larkspur Planning commission, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m., will get its first look at plans and concepts for the proposed ferry terminal on the city's waterfront.

Meeting at the city hall, the commission will consider the plan for a future use permit and listen to public response.

The plan, which would locate the terminal on the 82-acre Hutchinson quarry property just east of Highway 101, was presented Monday to the Golden Gate Bridge District's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee.

It was drafted by Mill Valley architect Norman T. Gilroy for a Los Angeles development firm. It represents Larkspur's answer to a plan submitted in August by Corte Madera, which proposes locating the terminal within its town limits.

Policies governing development along Corte Madera Creek will also be considered by the commission.

My Lai Defendant To Visit Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command said today Lt. William Calley, charged with the murder of 102 persons in the so-called My Lai massacre in March, 1968, has been granted permission to visit Vietnam for a week beginning Tuesday to prepare his defense.

But military spokesmen said they did not know exactly when Calley was scheduled to arrive, and that whether any newsmen would be allowed to see him would be up to Calley and his lawyers.

Calley left Ft. Benning, Ga., for Saigon Sunday night.

Package Explodes At Post Office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A postal employee was treated for shock Sunday night after a package being moved on a conveyor belt exploded at the District of Columbia's main post office, police said.

Damage was negligible. Police said an investigation was under way.

The joint finance-building and operating committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday to consider a $5,000 architectural study of a suicide barrier by Anshen and Allen, San Francisco architects. The full board balked on Oct. 9 at approving the study, sending back to committee for further study.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. on Friday. The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

Water District Makes Bond Pitch With Brochure Telling Operations

A glossy, two-color brochure describing the operations of the Marin Municipal Water District, which is seeking voter approval of an $11.5 million bond issue Nov. 3, has been mailed to the agency's 50,000 customers. The consultants said that the leaflet outlines the bond proposal, Measure H, but does not ask customers to vote for the bonds, William R. Seeger, district general manager, pointed out. Robert W. Elliott, the district's attorney, confirmed that spending district funds to urge a "yes" vote would be illegal, but that the district may inform the public about its operations and plans.

The same rule applies to large ads the district recently placed in each newspaper in the district. Each was prefaced with a note on the district's longtime policy and authority to inform the public about its plans.

The district's customers are paying approximately $11,000 for the brochures, through their water bills.

Seeger said the special mailing of the brochures also served as a test run for the district's plans to begin mailing its bills in envelopes next year for the first time.

The elaborate brochure has a 15-by-18 inch map on one side, stressing recreation potential of the MMWD watershed. The other side details the district's tax-free history, conservation and recreation offerings to the public and how it plans to spend the $11.5 million bond issue. It also bears a statement by Police were called to the dance hall when Saterlie apparently fell on the sidewalk outside. He was taken into an office at the dance hall with a severe cut head.

When police arrived, Saterlie was incoherent, police said.

When an officer reached into Saterlie's pocket to get his wallet for identification, a plastic container containing what police suspect is hashish fell out of his pocket.

Saterlie was treated at Marin General Hospital for the cut forehead prior to being booked.

He was released on his own recognizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

the bonds can be repaid from water sales at present rates — which were raised 25 per cent July 1. No tax levy will be needed, the consultants said.

Seeger said Stone and Youngberg also has been hired to supply the district with data and explanatory material needed before the election, at a maximum cost of $7,500. The brochure preparation was part of this, subcontracted by Stone and Youngberg to the San Francisco public relations firm of Whitaker and Baxter at a cost of $5,000.

Seeger said he and Elliott and the district directors approved the leaflet's contents.

The brochure's printing costs will be an additional $6,000 bill to the district, Seeger estimated.

MMWD voters also are receiving literature urging a "yes" vote on Measure H, but this is paid for by a volunteer campaign committee, Seeger said.

The committee's general chairman is Rex Silvernale and its finance chairman is Edward P. Murphy.

The committee works closely with the district board. In September, for instance, it reported sending fund pleas to contractors and suppliers, printing 15,000 endorsement signature cards, and placing "yes on H" ads on commute buses.

District directors and staff are speaking at scores of public meetings, explaining the bond issue and adding to the data in the brochure.

Child Development Center's Financial Woes To Be Eyed

Financial woes faced by the privately funded Marin Child Development Center in Tiburon, mounting complaints of poor service at the Hall of Justice cafeteria, and proposed elimination of the Marin City planning program are among major topics to be discussed tomorrow by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The county supervisors' all-day meeting will begin at 9 a.m. Other items on the agenda

TUESDAY IS a big day for the little boy in Nelson Treatment Center at Sonoma State Hospital. That is the day when Red Cross volunteer Mrs. Jerome

Schuman of Fairfax comes to his ward to play the piano. Tuesday used to be a big day for Pat, right, in the hospital's Wright Cottage because a piano lady used to come. She is writing a second letter to Marcia Macfarlan of Fairfax, chairman of the Red Cross Volunteer Program at Sonoma State Hospital, asking her to bring someone to play the empty piano. Mrs. Macfarlan says the patients would also enjoy an accordianist and a guitar player.

Doll Clothes Maker Needs Scrap Material

Mrs. Delores Moore of Sonoma needs help so she can help others.

For many years the former Marinite has been collecting used dolls and scraps of material

al, whipping them into shape for the welfare department to distribute to children who would otherwise not receive dolls for Christmas.

Mrs. Moore needs dolls, particularly Barbie dolls, and materials such as lace, ribbon, snaps, elastic and thread.

Sonoma State Patient, Pat, Would Like A Piano Player

By JOAN LISETOR

Pat, who lives in Wright Cottage at Sonoma State Hospital, wrote a letter recently to Marcia Macfarlan of Fairfax asking her to bring a piano lady on Tuesdays.

Mrs. Macfarlan, chairman of Red Cross Volunteers at Sonoma State Hospital, has been making weekly trips to the hospital since 1958 and until recently bringing three piano players with her.

Now there are only two piano players, and the wards
for young women, elderly women and a men's ward are without a piano player who is a shut-in due to arthritis of the spine.

Mrs. Moore never knows who
the recipients of the dolls are,
but last year she dressed one in a red Spanish outfit especially for an 8-year-old girl with arthritis. She had the red shoes for four years, waiting the right material to make the outfit, the right doll to put it on and someone special to give it to.

maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Robert's sisters, Kathy and Lauraine Fleischman, and

Saturday afternoon nuptials at ents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E.

The bridegroom's brother,
Paul Fleischman, was best man,
and guests were ushered to their seats by Richard Miller of Palo

Falls, Ohio, Brian Price of San Mateo, Edward D. Bullard of
Ross and Edwin L. Griffith
Jr. of San Anselmo, Constance's
brother.

A graduate of Redwood High School and the University of Denver, the bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. E.W. Bullard of Kentfield.

Robert was graduated from New York Public High School and the University of Denver.
He is in the Marine Reserve, stationed at Camp Pendleton.

Shirley Ann Loureiro became the bride of John Joseph Mahoney
Jr. at a wedding Oct. 17 at
St. Sylvester's Church in San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Loureiro of San Rafael,
Shirley chose as attendants
Kathleen Bleasdale of San Rafael as maid of honor and Roberta Blanchard of Montana.

the bridegroom's sister, and
Mrs. Michael Nave of San

Rites Of The East, West

East and West wedding traditions blended in the ceremony
uniting in marriage Judith Ann
Bauck of Petaluma and Suman-Samuel of Bombay, India. The ceremony was performed Oct.

17 in St. Paul's Chapel at Columbia University in New York
by the bride's father, the Rev.
Herbert E. Bauck of Petaluma.

The ceremony was written by the couple and the bride's father, and the bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs.
Herbert E. Bauck. Her brother,
the Rev. Steven Bauck of Akron,
Ohio, assisted at the ceremony and also welcomed Suman-Samuel into the family at the conclusion of the rite in the Indian tradition. Another Indian tradition, placing a necklace of beads representing years of happiness on the bride, was observed by the bridegroom. The custom, mangalasutra, means sacred unity in Indian.

The couple are on a wedding trip to Puerto Rico and will live in New York, where both are employed by the Office of Economic Opportunity. She is director of training programs,

HELEN HELP US!

If Any Of These Things Happen You Know The Honeymoon Is Over

DEAR READERS:

Today — a guest columnist: Alfred Allen, whose "On the Light Side" appears in the Sacramento Bee, brightens up a blue Monday. Forthwith:

A June bride asks plaintively, "When is the honeymoon over?"

An excellent question, Virginia. We will attempt to give you an answer — the we referring to a baker's dozen marriage experts experienced but unlicensed. They hold no degree in psychology but their experience has been gained in the toughest proving ground of all — marriage.

These are not summer soldiers but rather well-seasoned husbands, who relish the sting of marital battle. Only one is unmarried; or, as he prefers to say, between wives.

There is a strong parallel between marriage and warfare, Virginia, which we could extend were it not for the fear it might prove distressing. In marriage the triumphant march from the altar all too often is not the culmination of a victorious campaign but rather the beginning of a civil war.

The sentimental will say that to the man and woman who are right for each other, the honeymoon is never over. Others will say your query is like asking how much it costs to own a yacht — if you ask, you can't afford it — and if you are asking yourself if the honeymoon is over, it is.

To take the middle ground, we offer some general guidelines. We believe the honeymoon is over when:

Ten minutes after he comes home he can't remember whether he kissed you or not. He ignores your suggestion it

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organization interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato was the setting for the wedding of Linda Louise Roche and John Craig Griffin, both of Novato, on Saturday.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Roche. She was attended by Chris De Maestri as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Pam Welch, Nancy Henderson and Pam Dahlquist, all of Novato.

Rob Patterson of Novato was best man; groomsmen were Bill Harter, Randy Marnel and Joe Silva, and ushers were Kenneth Roche III, brother of the bride, and Steve McLaughlin, all of Novato.

A reception was held at the Non-Commissioned Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base. The couple are on a wedding trip to Mexico and will live in Novato on their return.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and is employed at Longs Drug Store in Terra Linda. Mrs. Josephine Fields of San Francisco is her grandmother.

He takes you up on your suggestion that since he has been so quick-tempered and mean recently it might be a good idea if he had a night out with the boys.

You complain, "You never tell me you love me anymore," and he says, "I married you, didn't I?"

He doesn't seem to care when you catch him eyeing — "positively leering" — at that brassy dame with the practically see-through blouse and far-too-short mini.

You hear him cursing the bathroom because your nylons are hanging all over the place.

He blows his cool and calls you a dumb broad because you drove a few blocks on a flat tire. He is quite unmoved by the logic of your statement that "The machine is made for man, not man for the machine."

He shouts, "Logic, hell. That was a brand new $5.50 tire!"

He says nothing when you tearfully threaten to go home to mother unless he admits he is wrong and says he is sorry. Instead, he fetches your suitcase from the hall closet.

The considered opinion of our experts is that if any three of the above apply in your case, the honeymoon indeed is over.

However, even if you have three strikes on you, so to speak, we caution against despair or even disillusionment. You might be surprised to learn the batting average of many marriages is low but somehow, for some strange reason, those involved just keep swinging away. — ALFRED ALLEN

Treating Burns

The kitchen, not the medicine cabinet, is the best place to keep a tube of antiseptic first aid cream handy. Most burns from scalding water, grease and hot oil occur in the kitchen and immediate application of the cream relieves pain and helps prevent skin blistering.

New Book On Supermarket Game Has Helpful Chapter

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you are not already peaved at some of the games and gimmicks that your food dollars pay for, a new book is guaranteed to raise your blood pressure still further.

But it can also help you get more for your money.

Like most books aimed at the consumer market, "The Supermarket Trap" falls into the groove of telling shoppers what they already know too well and spends too little time on what they can actually do about it.

Ten of the 11 chapters are devoted to telling in an interesting way how both consumers and the food industry got into the plight they are in today. Most of the details have been in the news and thus would be familiar to shoppers who have been following the situation closely.

"Make your own record of current food prices. Keep a small notebook with each week's shopping list in the front . . ."

READ LABELS ALL the way down to the fine print at the back. This is the way you will find more economical brands, avoid "maxi packages with mini contents," and identify the type of pack, such as whether fruit is whole or sliced and what meats are in terms of juice or syrup contents.

Learn the meaning of grades and use of terms, such as the fact that "beef and gravy" means more meat than "gravy and beef."

The weekly specials "can save an average of 20 percent on basic items ranging from detergents to cooked crabs, but do not overbuy."

In the search for bargains, she says, don't overlook "aged" meats that are sometimes available at the end of the day or after the weekend, "day-old bread" and store brands. She says prices for store brands average 21 per cent lower than for national brands though quality sometimes differs.

Many shoppers are already aware of these ways to save money, but they don't always have the time or inclination to follow through. Cutting food costs while prices generally are rising takes concentration and hard work.

Books and pamphlets can help, but there are no short cuts (except at some meat counters).

Anja Silja Again Scores As 'Salome'

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — German soprano Anja Silja, who captivated San Francisco Opera audiences two years ago as the lead in the late Wieland Wagner's production of "Salome," returned to the Opera House in the same role Saturday night.

It was a brava performance. Not only is Miss Silja an excellent interpreter of the difficult Richard Strauss libretto, but an excellent actress. And, too, she makes a very attractive Salome.

The famous dance which awakens Salome's womanly desires, is an intelligent piece of version that is sometimes associated with the part.

Miss Silja was matched vocally by tenor Ragnar Ulfung as King Herod, her lecherous step-father, and by basso Gerd Nienstedt in his San Francisco debut as Jochanaan, who eventually molds Salome's fate.

Sona Cervena, the highly respected Czech mezzo, was her usually stable self as Herodias, the revengeful mother of Salome. A real surprise was basso-baitone Jose Van Dam as one of the two Nazarenes. While the role is a small one, it gave Van Dam another chance to display his fine vocal talents which were so much a treat in this season's "Carmen," in which he

Hardline Mayor Wins In Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jean Drapeau, who called his opponents soft on separation and suspended active campaigning during the worst of Montreal's three-week kidnap crisis, Sunday won landslide re-election to a fifth term as mayor of Canada's largest city.

"This is a clear demonstration that there is no place in Montreal for the false prophets, the false messiahs," Drapeau exulted.

In the largest voter turnout in the city's history, Drapeau received more than 92 per cent of the popular vote, and all 52 City Council seats were filled by candidates from his Civic Party.

Police guarded polling places, and combat-garbed army troops still stood watch over public officials and buildings against the threat of fresh terrorism by the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ).

SOMETIMES A GRIND

Crossing Pacific In Ferrous Cement Boat Challenging, But . . .

By PAT ANGLE

Crossing North Pacific in a 36-foot ferrous cement sailboat is a challenging, exciting adventure — at least in retrospect. But Shigeo Kitano, who just accomplished that feat with three other young men, says the day-to-day grind of high adventure leaves much to be desired, especially when it involves 48 straight days at sea.

The brave seafarer learns many things — including how to be seasick for 48 days, the 33-year-old Japanese sailor said with a grin the other day in Sausalito. "We slept most of the time because we felt so terrible," he recalled. "Even getting up and preparing a meal sometimes felt like an entire day's work."

Moreover, meals on the high seas are not always something to look forward to, as the four soon learned. "One day we caught a huge tuna. The first day we had it raw (a Japanese delicacy) and the second day we cooked it in soy sauce. The third day we fried the fish and the fourth day we grilled it. On the fifth day, we all got sick," said Kitano laughing.

His shipmates are: Norio Matsushita, 30, who competed in the national sailing championships in Japan in 1967 in his own 15-foot racing dinghy; Hideharu Nagahama, 28, and Toshiro Fujikawa, 25. All are employed by the Nippon Steel Corporation's Hirohata works in the town of Himeji where they live.

When he felt up to it, Kitano (the only English-speaking member of the crew) wrote in his diary. The four expect to complete their round-the-world cruise in about two and a half years, and Kitano, once an assistant to a columnist on a Tokyo English-language newspaper, hopes to use his diaries to write adventure stories for children.

HAZEL

"The team won't forget you for this, Klotzmeyer."

He said life on the sailboat Akitsushima had other problems. "Two of the boys brought a guitar and trumpet aboard — instruments they didn't know how to play," he said. "They practiced and practiced." Kitano shuddered in recollection. "But, by the time we arrived in Seattle, I can tell you neither of them had learned to play."

He said, "Now I can really appreciate mutinies and understand how they happen," noting candidly that the four friends had a hard time getting along in the cramped quarters of the craft. "The tension builds and builds," he explained. "Someone does something and you wish he had done it another way — but you know that whatever way he did it, you wouldn't be pleased."

Kitano, a licensed commercial pilot, went for his annual pilot's physical examination in Seattle and the doctor, who had read of the trip, offered some assurances about the fighting and bad feeling on board ship. "He said if we could still smile at each other after 48 days at sea, then we would all need to see psychiatrists."

The trip, which received much advance publicity all over Japan, got off to an exciting start, with 5,000 people and members of the press, three press helicopters and about two dozen boats to wish the adventurers bon voyage.

Thirty minutes after they left the Himeji harbor, west of Kobe, a too-enthusiastic well-wisher, came a bit too close and rammed a hole in the sailboat. Fortunately, the damage was above the water line, but Kitano had a few bad moments because "I had been giving many interviews and assuring everyone confidently that, no, this boat couldn't possibly sink."

In the end, the accident was a lucky one, because the young

Kitano, who studied industrial management at the University of Southern California, said the trip's highlight included two Pacific storms (one in which the boat lost its generator and, consequently, had no radio for half the journey) and a near miss with a whale outside Seattle.

Today, or at least when the weather improves, the sailors plan to begin the second leg of their voyage, which will take them to Hawaii, the South Pacific, Australia, Africa and South America.

Despite the length of the 50,000-mile journey, Kitano said no young ladies have been invited aboard as crew members "because some of us might end up getting married and settle down before the trip is finished."

I told all my girlfriends at home no to wait for me," he said. But one persistent young woman followed him to San Francisco by plane. "I had to tell her to go home," he sighed, philosophically at the prospect of two years without feminine companionship. "A least this way, we'll really have something to look forward to when we get back to Japan."

Man Booked In Throwing Stink Bomb

A San Francisco man was booked at Marin County Jail today in connection with a stink bomb attack of the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael.

Ricard Garcia, 38, was booked on suspicion of depositing offensive matter on private property by San Rafael police on a citizen's arrest by an I-J security guard.

The guard, Robert D. Folland, told police he saw Garcia throw a Christmas ornament filled with a foul smelling liquid onto the roof of the I-J building. Garcia was standing near a shack used by San Francisco Typographical Union 21 pickets in a public parking lot behind the building when he threw the ornament at about 6:15 a.m., Folland told police.

Police said that when arrested, Garcia smelled of the offensive substance.

Four other stink bombs were thrown near the I-J building in a one-hour period today.

The location of the first at 5:09 a.m. could not be determined. At 5:16 a.m., Christmas ornament-type bombs were thrown at the I-J entrances on B Street and at the corner of Fifth Avenue and B Street. The same type stink bombs were tossed at two autos belonging to security guards in the I-J parking lot behind the building at 6:05 a.m.

More Court Action In School Plea

A Marin Superior Court judge has taken under consideration new evidence presented by St. Stephen's Episcopal Church which has been battling for seven years to keep open its day school in Belvedere.

The attorney for the parish, James Walsh of San Francisco, has given Judge Joseph G. Wilson waivers signed by 75 percent of the neighbors of the church which say they don't object to the school.

Judge Wilson had reluctantly ruled last year that the 36-pupil school for youngsters from kindergarten through third grade violated a deed restriction of the land on which the church sits at 3 Bayview Avenue.

The deed states that the property can only be used for religious worship.

He did not issue the injunction, however, closing the school at that time and allowed the church's attorney time to present the waivers by neighbors who do not object to the school.

Herbert Scheier, an attorney and a neighbor of the church and who has objected to the school since before it opened in 1963, claimed at a court hearing Friday that the waivers were not legally executed.

The judge gave both Walsh and Scheier an indefinite amount of time to research legal issues. He did not set a date for his decision.

Union Issue Due At Board Meeting

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider recognizing the Transport Workers Union of America, Local 250-A, as the representative of the district school bus drivers at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Also set for the meeting is the appointment of a citizens advisory committee whose function remains undecided.

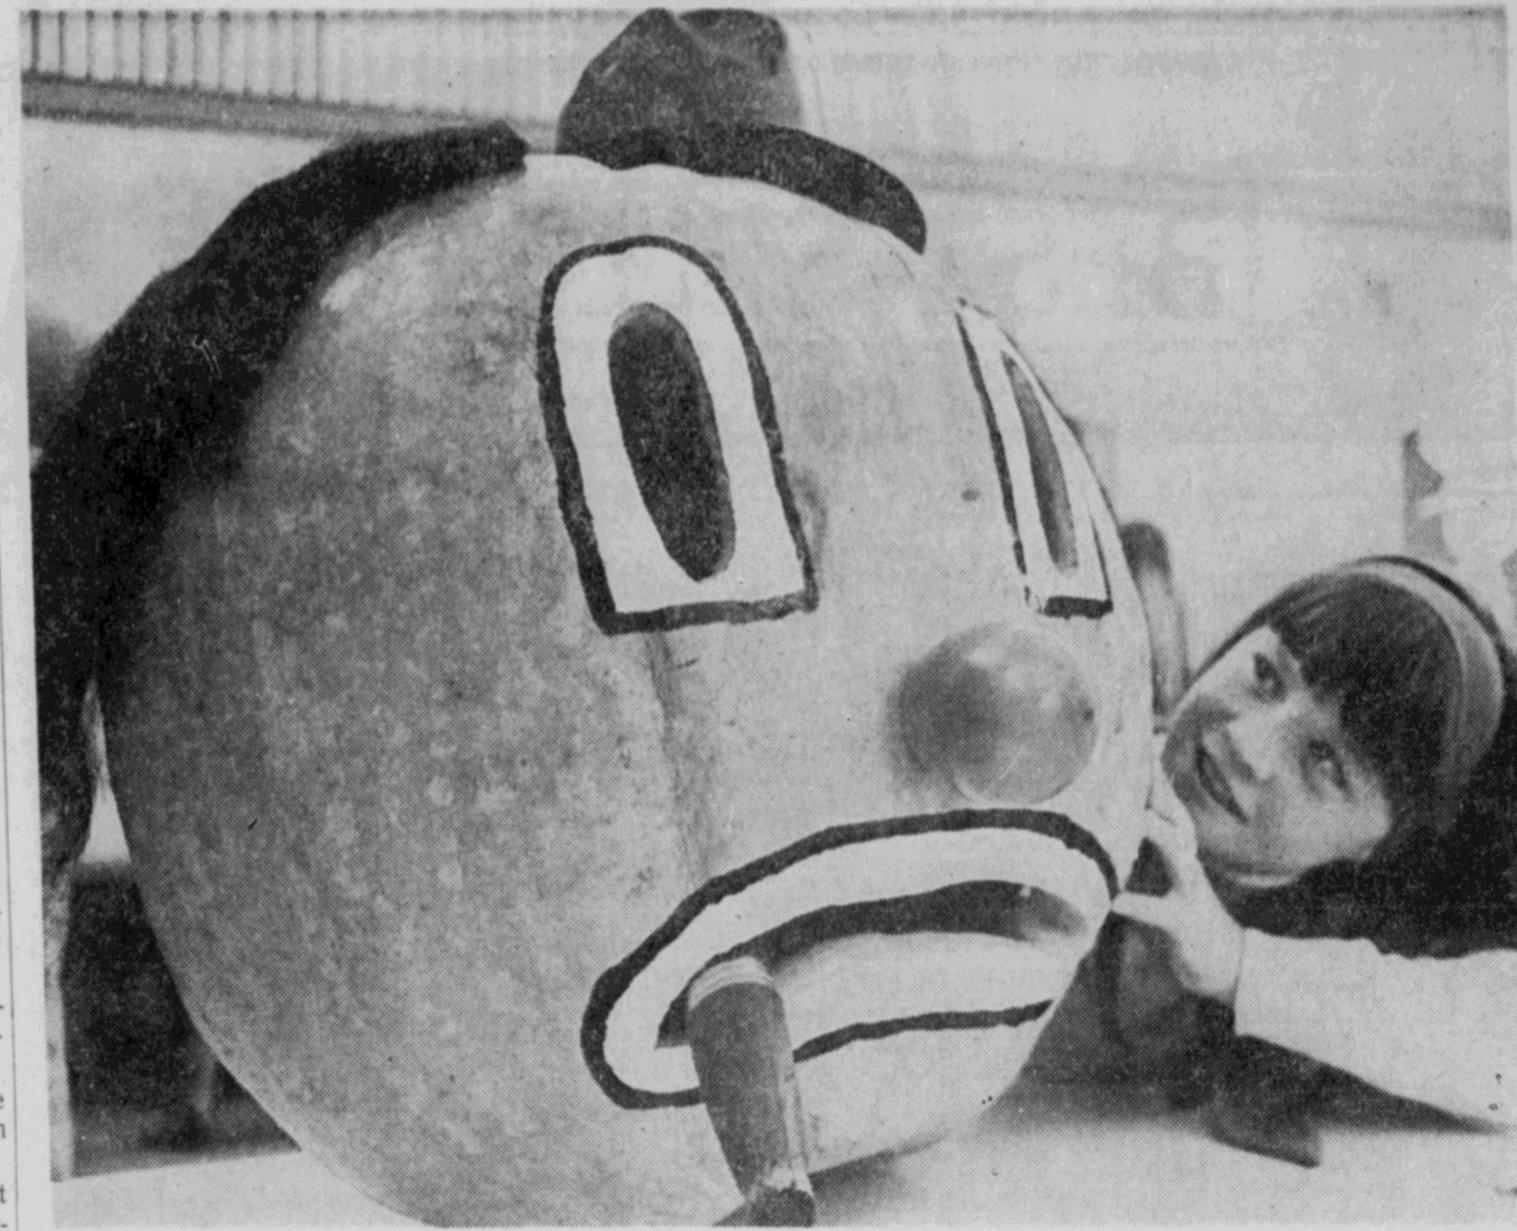

In addition, the board is expected to accept a gift of $451 from the San Pedro School Dad's Club for materials for the new San Pedro School Library and approve plans for cooperating with the Marin County Health Department Rubella Immunization Program.

Correspondent Talks Thursday

A woman war correspondent, who jumped into battle zones with Vietnamese paratroopers, will speak at College of Marin Thursday night, not Wednesday, as reported previously in the Independent-Journal.

Helen Lawlor Emmerich will speak at 8 p.m. at Olney Hall. An expert on China with the Stanford Research Institute will share the platform with her.

The Marin Professionals for Peace is sponsoring the talk. Two other programs sponsored by the group will be held at Olney Hall Nov. 10 and 24.

A CLOWN BY ANY NAME

Fifth grader Linda Gauer surveys the 75-pound pumpkin, Emmett, carved by her family for the "Festival of the Great Pumpkin." No matter how one spells his name, the bulky cigar chomping Jack-o'-lantern conjures up the memory of sad sack clown Emmett Kelly. The Gauer's clown won first prize in the division for decorated and carved pumpkins in competition Saturday at Rancho School to raise funds for the Novato Jets 4-H Club. However, an equally large Halloween creation resembling a monster, by Ron Ellis of Novato garnered the best of show award. That may explain Emmett's unbelieveable look.

Five Injured In Four Highway Accidents In Marin Over Weekend

One person was hospitalized and four others less seriously injured in four traffic accidents on Marin County highways over the weekend, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Irene Toth, 45, of San Francisco, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with possible internal injuries suffered yesterday in a four-car pileup on Highway 101 south of the Waldo Tunnel.

Officers said she was a passenger in a car driven by Imre Bereknyel, 45, also of San Francisco, which was involved in the chain collision at 4:35 p.m. while southbound on the freeway.

Other drivers escaped injury. The highway patrol identified them as Manbacher Farzan, 46, Manuel D. Salinas, 24, and Pedro S. Juntilla, 25, all of San Francisco.

In another accident at 7:20 p.m. Saturday, Sheila Leal, 24, of 98 Locust Street, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes after her car overturned as she drove south on Highway 101 just north of the Mill Valley exit.

The highway patrol reported the accident occurred as she tried to avoid a vehicle driven by Clint Brown, 24, of San Francisco, which cut in front of her car. Brown was cited for making an unsafe lane change.

A 16-year-old Marinwood youth, Scott E. Allen, of 598 Kernberry Drive, was injured Sunday when his motorcycle overturned after striking a dog at the intersection of Danberry and Cedarberry lanes in Marin.

Allen was treated at Marin General Hospital for mild concussion following the 4:55 p.m. accident.

In a fourth accident, Daniel H. Roos, 38, of San Francisco, was treated at the hospital for chest and muscle strain after his car collided with one driven by Deming S. Wuthmann, 16, of Palo Alto, at the Marin City interchange on Highway 101 north of Sausalito.

The patrol said Wuthmann failed to yield the right of way to Roos while making a left turn from Bridgeway toward Marin City. The impact pushed Wuthmann's car into a third vehicle, driven by Bruce Gereghy, 20, of 262 San Felipe Way, Novato, which was stopped at the intersection. Wuthmann told officers he would see his own doctor for minor cuts and scrapes of the arm.

Air Force Weapons Test Starts Again

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI)—After a five-year lull caused by the Vietnam War, the Air Force's "William Tell" Fighter Interceptor Weapons meet resumed today.

(Participants include the 84th Fighter-Interceptor Wing from Hamilton Air Force Base.)

William Tell is the world series of fighter-interceptor airmanship, and the most realistic peacetime test of the proficiency of this continent's air defense, men and machines.

Nine teams, of four aircraft each from the U. S. Air Force Aerospace Defense Command, Air National Guard and Canadian Forces Air Defense Command, are pitting their skills against a simulated "enemy" bomber in a daze called the Ryan Firebee Drone. These fast, elusive high-flying bulls-eyes fly at more than 600 miles per hour at 50,000 feet for more than an hour and provide the most realistic testing outside of actual combat.

The nine fighter-interceptor units from the United States and Canada are:

In the F-106 category, the 318th fighter-interceptor squadron, McCord AFB, Washington state; 71st from Malmstrom AFB in Montana and the 84th FIs, Hamilton AFB, California.

letter to the commission saying that in newspaper, magazine, billboard and other types of printed ads, they would "disclose clearly and prominently" the tar and nicotine contents as determined by FTC tests on each brand of cigarettes.

The Tobacco Institute representing the industry, notified the Federal Trade Commission that the voluntary program had been drawn up in response to an FTC request of Oct. 1 to state how they would conduct one.

Eight companies signed a

Angela Refuses Food, Doctor Finds Her Fit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Angela Davis, the philosophy instructor accused of murder in California, is on a hunger strike, jail officials reported Sunday.

Miss Davis "refused to eat any solid food last night or at breakfast this morning," a spokesman for the city Corrections Department said Sunday. A doctor who examined the woman "found her to be in perfect health," he said.

Formerly a philosophy instructor at the University of California, Miss Davis, 26, was fired from her job after a controversy over her admission that she is a member of the Communist party in this country. She is charged with murder of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley in an Aug. 7 shootout at the Marin County Civic Center. Three others also were killed.

Although Miss Davis was not present during the actual

Professor Rips Kent Jury Report

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — A Kent State University professor blasted the report of a state grand jury on the disorders here last May, in direct defiance of a Portage County court order prohibiting witnesses from making critical comments on the report.

The grand jury, indicting 25 students and "agitators," absolved National Guardsmen of law breaking in the shooting deaths of four students May 4. It blamed the disorders and the shootings on "the permissive attitude" of the university administration.

Glenn Frank, a geology professor at Kent State for 17 years, said he witnessed the burning of the campus ROTC building May 2, and therefore agreed "some people deserve to be prosecuted."

"However, that should not allow a judge, jury or a prosecutor to make what I consider to be a farce out of justice for their own gain or to gain favor with the voters," he said.

"Freedom of speech is bigger than (County) Judge (Edwin) Jones . . . I defy Judge Jones to arrest me for contempt of court. I cannot see a system I respect subverted," Frank said.

Frank spoke in response to an article in the Akron Beacon-Journal which quoted a state special prosecutor as saying the National Guard should have "shot all troublemakers during the disorders."

The prosecutor, Seabury H. Ford of Ravenna, said he was misquoted. He was one of three lawyers specially appointed to lead the grand jury investigation.

Finch Urges Election Of Peter Behr

Residential counselor Robert H. Finch yesterday called for the election next week of Peter B. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for the state Senate.

Finch, speaking at a fund-raising lunch for Behr at Peacock Gap Country Club, praised Behr's "splendid qualifications" in a six-minute talk. He said that Behr was the kind of man needed as the nation entered what he termed "a decade of peace."

About 275 persons attended the $25-a-plate lunch. Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who introduced Finch, commented that "only fools and politicians and friends of Peter Behr" would attend a Sunday lunch. Bagley addressed the crowd as the "brunch for Behr bunch."

Finch, calling Bagley "the pixie of all seasons," offered his own quip. "There's a Martha Mitchell watch now," he said. "You don't have to look at it—it tells you the time."

Behr urged his supporters not to relax their campaign work in the last week. "The summit is in sight," he said. "I've always run scared, and I'm running more scared than any time in the past."

Seated at the head table were Sens. Howard Way of Exeter and Jack Schrade of San Diego. Senate president pro tem. Schrade ousted Way as Senate leader in January in a bitter fight.

Yes, your property taxes are too high!

Governor Reagan tried to cut them. His 14-point tax relief program would have reduced your taxes anywhere from 25 to 40 percent.

Governor Reagan's 14-point tax relief program and what it would have done for you:

- Reduce property taxes anywhere from 25 to 40 percent.
- Provide a $50.00 annual income tax cut for renters.
- Give additional State money to local school districts to offset costs of inflation.
- Put a lid on local property taxes by establishing spending limits on certain programs.
- Shift $190 million in annual welfare and Medi-Cal costs from counties to the State level.
- Adopt withholding and provide a one-time, 35 percent reduction on your 1970 State income taxes.
- Reduce discriminatory inventory tax.
- Provide tax incentives to preserve California's open space lands.
- Increase the bank and corporations tax to 7½ percent.
- Reduce the oil depletion allowance.
- Increase the sales tax by one-cent on non-essentials (but not on food, shelter, drugs or medical expenses).
- Increase the State income tax at the higher levels (above $32,000).
- Close tax loopholes so that citizens and corporations pay a minimum income tax.
- Increase homeowner exemptions for senior citizens.

Keep California moving ahead in the '70s.

A Cut of 35 Percent on Your 1970 Income Tax

Governor Reagan would have provided a one-time 35 percent reduction on your 1970 state income tax by returning to the taxpayers the "windfall" from the introduction of a withholding system for the State income tax.

The "fair-share" tax relief program would have been financed by

- increasing the bank and corporations tax to 7½ percent.
- reducing the oil depletion allowance
- increasing the State income tax at the higher brackets ($32,000 and over)
- a one-cent increase in the sales tax (but this would not apply to food, shelter, drugs and medical expenses), and by
- closing loopholes so that certain citizens and corporations pay at least a minimum income tax.

93 of 119 Legislators Voted For Governor Reagan's Plan

Governor Reagan's tax plan was thoroughly discussed in committee and on the floor of both houses of the Legislature. It was supported by 93 out of 119 legislators—78 percent of those present and voting.

It was fought by a small band of State Senators. Most of them favored a tax plan which would have increased taxes by $135 million in the first year, and would have increased property taxes on some small homes by more than 300 percent!

The Reagan plan was finally defeated by one vote. The small band of politicians won—and you lost.

Help Governor Reagan Get Tax Relief For You Next Year

In a few days you will receive your property tax bill. Perhaps you have it already. It probably makes you mad. It should. It makes us mad, too.

Because, if Governor Reagan's tax relief program had not been defeated by a handful of politicians, your property taxes could have been anywhere from 25 to 40 percent lower this year.

Governor Reagan has vowed that he'll keep right on trying to get tax relief for you—he's promised that it will be the first order of business next year. He'll do it, too—if he has enough legislators to help him.

You can help. On November 3rd. That's the day to vote for Governor Reagan and the rest of the Team for the Seventies. Then we can have our property taxes reduced next year. Won't that be a relief!

Re-elect Governor Reagan.

Oakland Thumps Steelers

OAKLAND (UPI) — A month and a half ago, the Pittsburgh Steelers moved with the ferocity and certainty of an ominous football power and the Oakland Raiders put fourth about as much energy as a dazed elephant.

Therein lies the folly of evaluating pro football teams on the basis of preseason play.

COMMAND

The Raiders, impotent and listless in a 20-6 exhibition loss to Pittsburgh, mastered the Steelers in commanding fashion Sunday for a 31-14 football season National Football League victory.

Rookie quarterback Terry Bradshaw, destructive on the run as well as through the air way back on Sept. 12, was humbled this time by a poised and well prepared Oakland defense. The Pittsburgh defenders, yielding merely 63 points in their first five games, were stung by a graying, 43-year-old field goal kicker who still is a highly capable quarterback.

Three drivers lost their lives. Ernie Purcell, 28, Grass Valley, was completing the first lap of the first heat race when his car swerved into an outside guardrail. His supermodified vehicle flipped wildly, landed in the middle of the one-mile dirt track and was hit broadside by a car driven by Bob Thomas of Walnut Creek.

Driver Walter Reiff, 41, Anaheim, who already had qualified for the main event later, then was killed when he ran onto the track from the sidelines to wave oncoming cars to slow down. He was hit by a car driven by Paul Turner, Garden Grove, who went into a slide when he tried to stop.

The last fatality occurred in the 34th lap of the 100-mile third annual $11,000 U.S. open competition, the main event. Driver Jimmy Gordon, 25, Sacramento, a local favorite was the victim.

He had just made a pit stop and was trying to make up lost ground when his sprint car locked wheels with one driven by Bud Gilbert of Santa Ana. Gordon's car cartwheeled through the air, slammed onto the track in front of an oncoming car driven by Ron Rea of Sepulveda.

Rea's car hit the overturned machine, ripping loose a fuel tank, and Gordon's car burst into flames. He died in the wreckage.

SONOMA STATE IN NARROW GRID TRIUMPH

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs, with supercharged halfback Scott Duncan leading the way, romped past the hapless Redwood Giants, 28-0 Saturday at Larkspur to stay undefeated in the Marin County Athletic League football race.

Duncan scored twice on sizeable runs and piled up 116 yards rushing to spark San Rafael's third win in league play, and fifth overall against a single loss. The Giants of Redwood High, who have yet to win a game, suffered their sixth loss.

The mismatch was evident early in the game, and San Rafael coach Bob Muster softened the runaway by emptying his bench in the second half. "We used all the troops, and experimented in the second half," assistant coach Dave Wylie said afterwards.

Nevertheless the Bulldogs scored in every period while holding Redwood to 105 yards total, a mere 22 of them on the ground.

Duncan, who averaged better than six yards a carry on the soft turf, keyed the victory with a 30-yard touchdown gallop in the first quarter. His other score came on a 20-yard burst in the third period, and put the Bulldogs ahead, 21-0.

In between Duncan's romps, San Rafael quarterback Dirk Gansloser capitalized on a fumble recovery on the Giants' one yard line by diving over for the second touchdown.

Mrs. Arnott, a 167 average bowler, won the Marin County Queens tournament yesterday on the Redwood 17 yard line and scrambled into the end zone late in the game.

She was the winner out of 44 bowlers. In the final two matches, Ann rolled games of 223 and 235. Penny Tauscher was runner-up, averaging 190 scratch and 208 handicap.

Tragic Day Of Racing In Capital

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — They've been holding auto races at the old state fairgrounds for 22 years without a fatality.

The track is going to be demolished, and Sunday was the last card of events. The casualty-free record ended in a series of spectacular accidents.

Three drivers lost their lives. Ernie Purcell, 28, Grass Valley, was completing the first lap of the first heat race when his car swerved into an outside guardrail. His supermodified vehicle flipped wildly, landed in the middle of the one-mile dirt track and was hit broadside by a car driven by Bob Thomas of Walnut Creek.

GOOD PURSUIT — San Marin Mustang quarterback Jim Nakamine broke for a sizeable gain Saturday before Rick Trono (1), Rob Mackey (25) and Mike Sabel (24) of Terra Linda converged

SAN MARIN HOMECOMING SPOILERS

A Triumph For Terra Linda

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Marin High School football coach Bob Martin said before last Saturday's game with Terra Linda High, "We'll be playing for the breaks." Well, the Mustangs got more than their share of breaks against the undefeated Trojans, but lost anyway, 21-15 in their homecoming game at Novato High School.

Lest we detract unduly from Terra Linda, let it be said that their rushing attack was superb, led by halfback Matt Bowman, who scurried for 104 yards in 23 carries, and quarterback Larry Kerr, who powered his way to 75 yards. Together they simply wore the Mustangs out.

Five times, with three fumbles and two disastrous snaps from center on punt attempts, the defending Marin County Athletic League champion Trojans coughed up the ball deep in their own territory, but the Mustangs passed up all but one of those opportunities, and lost their second of three league games. The Trojans are 4-0.

Doctors said he would be hospitalized for less than a week.

Back to the game. The Mus tangs had a couple of golden opportunities to score in the opening minutes, recovering fumbles twice inside the Trojan 30. But the first time they fumbled right back, and then Urbano Boucquez missed a field goal attempt from 43 yards.

The Trojans, who ground out 222 yards rushing, marched 51 yards late in the second quarter for the touchdown that put them ahead to stay. Kerr completed five of eight passes along the way, including a three-yarder to Rick Trono that made the score 14-7 with just eight seconds left in the half.

San Marin had tied the game midway through that period after Larry Mandin's one yard dive gave Terra Linda the game's first touchdown with time running out in the first quarter. Mustang quarterback Jim Nakamine engineered a 51-yard drive and got the touchdown himself on a seven-yard sweep.

Terra Linda seemed determined to let San Marin tie things up again in the third quarter. Twice Trojan punter Bill Sherbert had a snap from

GOLFERS' NEXT STOP: LAS VEGAS

Ken Still Runs Off With Silverado's Top Prize

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Ken Still, along with the rest of the golfing nomads, heads for Las Vegas today for the Sahara Invitational, next stop on the PGA tour, but for a change he claims no one is going to get his money.

Still won the $150,000 Kaiser International Open at Silverado Sunday, beating Bert Yancey and Lee Trevino on the first hole of a sudden death playoff. It was worth $30,000 to Still and represented his first big paycheck on the tour since the middle of 1996.

"Sure, I'm going to Las Vegas for the Sahara," Still said fingering his big check, "but I'll tell you this, they aren't going to get any of my 30 thou."

He was referring to the various gambling games Las Vegas is noted for — games he had participated in in past years.

"It's been a long time since I won something like this and I have a lot of things I want to do with it better than gambling," he said. "Besides, now that I'm playing good again I want to concentrate on my game."

There was little wrong with Still's game in the Kaiser. He credited the memory of a grandmother he lost earlier in the week and some hitting lessons from old pro Rockie Elaison of the Allenmore Country Club in Tacoma for his Kaiser success.

He putted extremely well, especially when he had to, as Trevino and Yancey, who won $13,875, found out.

Still missed a few putts, too, but he recovered after taking bogies on 15 and 16 to roll in a 10-footer on 18 and create a three-man tie. Then, came his dramatic putt on the first to wrap things up.

Still, who cracked a couple of ribs in a bathroom accident at the San Diego Open last January, has been fighting his way back all year long.

"I'll tell you, it's really been something," he said. "I dropped off the tour for nearly two months after the accident and it took me another four before I could play anywhere near my best game, but I never gave up. This week I felt I put it together for the first time

Championship Atmosphere Around Clay-Quarry Bout

ATLANTA (UPI) — Is Cassius Clay still "the greatest," or or have 3 1/2 years away from the ring dulled the talents of the controversial heavyweight champion who once could "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee?"

The answer, or the beginning of the answer, comes at 10 p.m. EST tonight when the 28-year-old Clay steps into a ring at Municipal Auditorium here and faces rough, tough California Jerry Quarry in a 15-round bout with all the trappings of a heavyweight championship match — except the champion-ship.

Las Vegas oddsmakers rated Clay a 5 to 2 favorite to score the 30th victory in his unbeaten career, and thus qualify for a bout with current heavyweight champion Joe Frazier sometime next year.

"Nobody's the champion unless he beats me," said Clay as he wound up training for this fight at Municipal Auditorium here and faces rough, tough California Jerry Quarry in a 15-round bout with all the trappings of a heavyweight championship

"He can't beat me with his mouth," retorted Quarry. "I do my fighting with my fists."

This day has been proclaimed a "day of mourning" by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, who tried his best to stop the bout from being held here but could find no legal method of doing so. Maddox, who is opposed to the fight because Clay was convicted of draft dodging and still as awaiting decision on his appeal of that conviction, finally wound up by saying he hopes "Quarry knocks him out — not for the count of 10, but for 30."

Marin Tars Lose To Solano '11'

By STEVEN DREYER

The College of Marin Tars, losing more yards from penalties than they gained on the ground were upset Saturday night by a determined Solano College team, 30-21, before 1,200 frostbitten Homecoming fans in Vallejo.

Marin was charged with 15 penalties, including ten 15-yard calls, for a total of 170 yards. Four Tar players — Ron Budde, Ben Smith, Stacy Schaefer, and Lynn Merritt — were thrown out of the game for personal fouls.

Meanwhile, between red flags and fights between linemen, the Tars managed to put on two fine scoring drives in the second quarter, before the roof fell in the second half. Tar quarterback Jim Peters led his troops from Solano's 48 to pay-dirt with a 32-yard run by fullback Ron Blasingame, and a five-yard run by halfback George Adams. A Falcon penalty (Solano had nine all game) put Marin on Solano's 13-yard line with first-and-10. Blasingame got the call, and made like a Sherman tank for 11 yards. Halfback Gary Agee scored from the two on the next play, and, with Pat Green's point-after kick, Marin tied the game 7-7.

No sooner had Marin kicked off, when Budde picked off a Falcon pass and ran it back 16 yards to Solano's 25 yard-line.

But just to even things off, Peters fumbled an intended lateral to Agee, and Falcon back Doug Bumatay recovered to end that drive. Solano couldn't move the ball, so Marin took over on a bad kick and a even worse bounces on the home team's 38-yard line. With third and 15 to go, Peters spotted end Larry Blackwell halfway to the end zone, and connected with the speedy runner for the go-ahead touchdown.

Three minutes later Solano found itself with fourth and nine on its own 21 yard line. The Falcons attempted to punt but the snap from center was fumbled, Safety Mel Phillips, cornerback Jimmy Johnson and linebacker Skip Vanderbundt made key pass interceptions in the second half. Phillips' pilfer led to Gossett's 25-yard field goal that put the 49ers in the lead for keeps 16-14 at 7:31 of the third quarter.

Johnson picked off a Steve Tensi pass in the end zone midway through the final period when the Broncos were on the SF 25. And Vanderbundt killed a last-gasp effort by Denver when he intercepted a Liske pass in the end zone as the final gun sounded.

"That interception by Johnson in the end zone was the crucial play of the game for us," moaned coach Lou Saban. "because we were within field goal range at the time. No question, all those interceptions hurt us."

But there was some bad news for the 49ers. Flanker Gene Washington, who entered the game as the leading pass catcher in the NFC, pulled a hamstring muscle in his left thigh and has availability for Sunday's game at Kazar against Green Bay was doubtful.

Washington caught passes of 45 and 31 yards in the first quarter to set up Gossett's first two field goals.

and now I want to go on and see if I can win me some more money this year."

RAIN

The $30,000 from the Kaiser, a tournament held up on Friday by rain and wrapped up with 36 holes on Sunday, gave Still a 35-year-old sports nut from Tacoma, Wash., 1970 earnings of $57,110. The last time he won a tourney was the 1969 Milwaukee Open.

Still led the Kaiser after the second round with a nine under 135 total and picked up another stroke by carding a one under 71 in Sunday's morning round. He finished with an even par 72 tie with Trevino (70-71) and Yancey (69-70) with a 72-hole score of 10 under 278.

"I'll tell you, I was getting a little weary at the end," Still said. "I've had a cold for 18 days and it doesn't seem to be getting any better. But when you have a chance at something like this you forget how tired you are and think strong."

Still said he had his grandmother on his mind throughout the Kaiser tourney. She died last week and Still was a pallbearer at her funeral two days before the start of the Kaiser.

FOR GRANDMA

"It may sound a little corny," Still said, "but I won this one for my grandma, a real great girl. I came here feeling a little low and she was with me on every shot this week."

No one was exactly feeling sorry for Yancey and Trevino, both pretty big winners this year.

Yancey will play at Sahara this week but Trevino, who now has won $139,069, leaves today for Australia to play in the world's football game next week.

center go awry, both times again inside the 30.

But Bouscigue missed again, from 44 yards, to foil one chance, and Nakamine threw incomplete on fourth down to nullify the other.

The Trojans made it 21-7 in the fourth quarter, going 61 yards in 13 plays, all on the ground. Kerr dove two yards for the touchdown.

San Marin's final score, meaningless as it was, came with no time on the clock as Nakamine hit Marty Larsen with a one yard pass, five plays after Hoza Wright stole the ball from Trono on the 20-yard line.

Nakamine jumped in front in the opening period on a 25-yard field goal by Bob Cooper, but went into the locker room at halftime trailing, 7-3. Salesian quarterback Steve Alameda unolo a d e d a 29-yard touchdown pass to Dwayne Morrison midway through the second quarter for the Chieftain's long score of the game.

The second half was a battle of defenses. Derecat's fumble recovery came on the Hornets' 24 yard line with one minute, 47 seconds showing on the clock.

Magers' touchdown run, a sweep to the left, was his longest gain of the game.

Fragrance Of Roses At Stanford,
But Oregon Also Wins In Pac-8

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

"Tis a rare college football season when Southern Cal or UCLA don't figure in the Rose Bowl picture.

In 1966 UCLA was the West Coast representative in the battle of the roses while USC has been there for the past four seasons. That long string is apparently at an end this season.

The fragrance of roses is strongest these days at Stanford, Calif., and Eugene, Ore., home of the surprising Oregon Ducks.

By beating UCLA on three field goals by Steve Horowitz Saturday night in Los Angeles, the Stanford Indians hoped on the inside track for the 1971 Rose Bowl with a clean 4-0 record in the Pacific-8 Conference and Pac-8 games remaining with Oregon State this Saturday and then Washington and California.

Oregon came from behind Saturday to upset USC 10-7 on Bobby Moore's short plunge after a 50-yard pass from Fouts to end Bobby Newland.

The loss left USC and UCLA with identical 2-2 records in the conference. And those teams still must play each other.

In other Pac-8 games, California routed Washington State 45-0 and Washington downed University of San Francisco 58-0, Idaho State downed Weber State 30-14, St. Mary's upset the University of San Francisco 58-0, Idaho State downed Weber State 30-14, St. Mary's upset the University of San Diego 12-7 and Montana scored a 35-7 win over South Dakota.

Horowitz' toe, rather than Jim Plunkett's passing arm, provided the eighth-ranked Indians with their hard-earned win over UCLA. Horowitz booted field goals of 38, 35 and 30 yards before $3,518 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

But it was a Randy Vataha catch of a 42-yard Plunkett pass that helped set up Horowitz' final field goal with 5:01 remaining and UCLA leading 7-6 at Marv Kendricks' two-yard sweep of end with 1:54 to go in the third quarter.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Heublein, Unishops Have Good Records

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We are in our mid-forties and financially comfortable. Our only retirement pension will be Social Security and $14,000 from maturing insurance policies. We have three consecutive investments, adequate savings and insurance. We are about to receive $7,000 which we wish to invest. What would you recommend? — W. A.

A. You have about twenty working years left in which to build your capital toward a secure retirement. Your capital should be invested in financially sound growth companies with well-established records of up-trending sales and earnings.

I would divide the $7,000 equally between Heublein, Inc. and Unishops, Inc. Heublein dominates the domestic vodka market, is a leading producer of beer and pre-mixed cocktails and has a growing position in U.S. wines as well as being sole distributor and/or importer of several popular foreign wines.

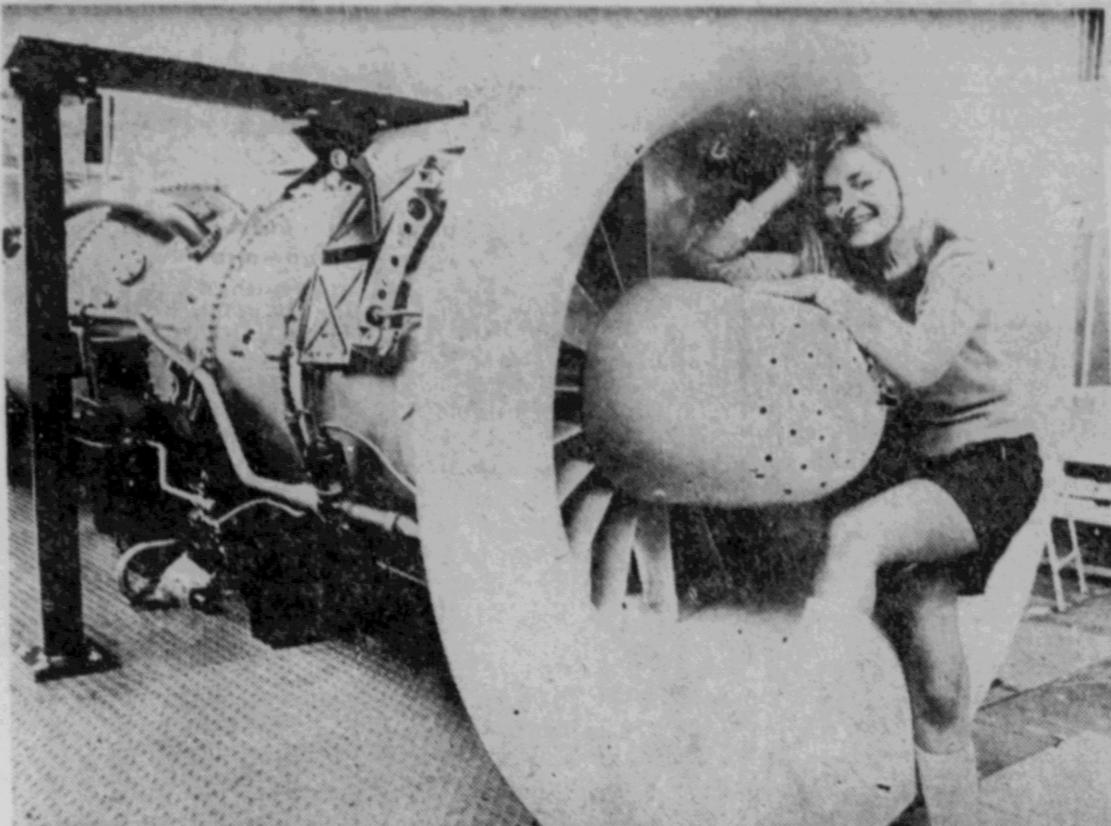

Sales of this aggressive marketing company have risen an average of 45 per cent annually in the last decade with earnings improvement even more impressive. Acquisitions have played a major part in Heublein's growth, although a merger proposal early this year to Liggett & Meyers was rejected by that firm. As of June 30, 1970, current asset ratio was 2.2-to-1 and long-term debt was $72.3 million. Now trading at 25 times estimated fiscal 1971 earnings of $1.60 a share, Heublein has above-average long-term growth potential.

Unishops has a thirteen-year record of improving sales and earnings. Company chairman hopes to see sales exceed $1 billion by 1980 which would require annual sales growth of 20 per cent well below the 30 per cent rate of the last five years. At last count Unishops operated 324 leased departments in retail outlets and fourteen discount department stores. By 1974, operation of 56 of the company's leased departments will be taken over by Kresge management, in whose K-Marts they are located. In an effort to counteract this loss, Unishop has stepped up its pace of expansion. Long-term investments should prove rewarding.

Time Lists Higher 9-Month Earnings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time, Inc. has reported a small profit for the third quarter and higher earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30 and said revenues in both periods reached record highs.

In the quarter, the company earned $222,000, or three cents per share, on $146,470,000 in revenues, compared with a net loss of $689,000, on revenues of 144,462,000 for the year earlier period. The 1969 figures are before an extraordinary gain of $86,000 or one cent per share.

Time said magazine advertising revenues were down 11 per cent and broadcasting advertising revenues down 6 per cent in the quarter compared with a year earlier. Revenue increases resulted primarily from higher sales of books and records, increased sales of marketing data, and from book clubs, sculpture replicas, newspapers and films, the company said.

Caterpillar Layoff

PEORIA (UPI) — Caterpillar Tractor Co. announced it will lay off 435 production workers at five plants Oct. 30. Besides Peoria, the plant locations affected are Mapleton and Mossdale, Ill., Davenport, Iowa, and York, Pa.

Turnover amounted to around 9,000,000 shares, compared with 10,270,000 shares traded Friday.

Closing prices included Am T & T 42-3 off 3-8; Beth St 21 off 1-4; Chrysler 24 1-2 off 1-8; DuPont 117 1-8 off 7-8; Ford 48 5-8 off 5-8; Gen Electric 86 1-8 up 1-8; General Motors 70 7-8 off 1 1-8; IBM 289 3-4 off 5 1-4.

Selected oil stocks attracted demand as a result of some favorable corporate news. Electronics were mostly lower, however, while other major stock groups generally traded in fractions and on both sides of previous closings.

Monsanto, which traded an early block of 151,500 shares at $23 unchanged, was among the day's most active issues. So were Texaco Corp., White Motor Corp., Aetna Life & Casualty, and Ashland Oil.

Gold mining stocks also showed scattered strength. The group normally runs counter to the market's trend.

Todd shipyards pointed lower. It reported a lower six-months net.

Some analysis regarded the market action as a "repeat of last week's lackluster performance."

Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co., said some early strength was encouraging because it developed without the help of stimulating news. But the upswing failed to attract sufficient following as traders continued to worry about the economy.

Prices eased in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

New President Of Spectrum Air Starting From Scratch After Fire

One of the ironies of the Columbus Day fire at Spectrum Air, Inc. at Gross Field, Novato this month was that Harold Lipska took over as president of the firm only a few days before it happened and had not had time to get acquainted with his feet wet.

Now he has plenty — starting from scratch.

A trailer has been rented and from there he and his staff are directing plant reconstruction.

Spectrum, a subsidiary of Holiday Magic, Inc., offers flight instruction, rental and charter services and aircraft ground services.

Turnover amounted to around 9,000,000 shares, compared with 10,270,000 shares traded Friday.

Closing prices included Am T & T 42-3 off 3-8; Beth St 21 off 1-4; Chrysler 24 1-2 off 1-8; DuPont 117 1-8 off 7-8; Ford 48 5-8 off 5-8; Gen Electric 86 1-8 up 1-8; General Motors 70 7-8 off 1 1-8; IBM 289 3-4 off 5 1-4.

Selected oil stocks attracted demand as a result of some favorable corporate news. Electronics were mostly lower, however, while other major stock groups generally traded in fractions and on both sides of previous closings.

Monsanto, which traded an early block of 151,500 shares at $23 unchanged, was among the day's most active issues. So were Texaco Corp., White Motor Corp., Aetna Life & Casualty, and Ashland Oil.

Gold mining stocks also showed scattered strength. The group normally runs counter to the market's trend.

Todd shipyards pointed lower. It reported a lower six-months net.

Some analysis regarded the market action as a "repeat of last week's lackluster performance."

Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co., said some early strength was encouraging because it developed without the help of stimulating news. But the upswing failed to attract sufficient following as traders continued to worry about the economy.
